Marriage and Family Counseling

Since 1983, the ULM Marriage and Family Therapy Clinic has been serving the community by helping individuals, couples, and families navigate a variety of concerns within the context of a relational system. The facility works closely with other mental health agencies in the community to provide competent therapy to those seeking assistance. Clients have described the clinic as “a safe haven” where they are “treated with respect, concern, and compassion.”

Graduate students in the Marriage and Family Therapy Master's and Doctoral programs provide confidential services that adhere to Louisiana law and the ethical policies established by the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) and the American Counseling Association (ACA). AAMFT-approved supervisors, who also serve as the students' professors, give clinical guidance to the student therapists. Both the therapists' rigorous training and their respect for diversity ensure a professional experience for any client.

Services are open to the community for a nominal fee, and services are always free to ULM faculty, staff, and students. For more information, please visit <http://www.ulm.edu/mft/clinic.html> or call the Marriage and Family Therapy Clinic at 318-342-5678.
